Unitaid is an international organization that works with partners to turn good ideas into groundbreaking solutions for global health.

WHAT WE DO

Unitaid monitors the latest advances in science and medicine and helps develop the best ones into workable health solutions for low- and middle-income countries. Innovations we sponsor support the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, including the push toward universal health coverage. Many medicines, diagnostic tests and tools that major health funders and countries are using today would not exist if Unitaid had not been there, working behind the scenes, to first find them and prove their worth.

The impact of our partnerships shows in millions of ways every year: in children who will never get malaria because of a prevention approach we advanced, in people who are able to learn their HIV status through inexpensive self-test kits we created a market for, in women who avoid cervical cancer using our affordable screen-and-treat solutions, in new hope for children and adults with drug-resistant tuberculosis.

Unitaid is also a leader in the fight against superbugs—infected microbes that are resistant to mainstay treatments.

HOW WE WORK

- We identify gaps in the global health response
- We invest in innovative solutions to fill those gaps
- We work with partners to put our solutions to the test
- Our health solutions are scaled up through our funding partners and reach those in need

OUR SUPPORTERS

Unitaid’s principal funders are France, the United Kingdom, Brazil, Norway, Chile, the Republic of Korea, Spain and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.
